Who am I?

My name is Preksha Porwal, and I use she/her pronouns.

I come from a Jain family and was raised in a middle-class household. I am currently based in Pune.

Like all of us, I carry my own life experiences into the therapy room. I have witnessed violence and abuse within my family, experienced the loss of loved ones, and navigated periods of financial uncertainty.

These experiences do not define me entirely, but they have shaped how I understand people, relationships, pain, resilience, and healing. They influence how I show up in the therapy room—as a therapist and as a human being.

Is my practice ethical?

My practice is grounded in the ethical principles.

- I completed my Master's degree in Counselling Psychology in 2023.
- I regularly engage in trainings, workshops, and continued learning to strengthen my knowledge and skills.
- I receive regular supervision from an experienced mental health professional who supports my professional growth and ethical practice.
- Before beginning therapy, I ensure that clients understand their rights, responsibilities, and what they can expect from the therapeutic process.
- I maintain strict confidentiality regarding everything shared in therapy sessions. There are a few legal and safety-related exceptions to confidentiality, all of which will be discussed with you before therapy begins.

What does therapy with me look like?

I try to create a space where all emotions are welcome- the comfortable ones and the difficult ones.

Therapy with me is human. At times, I may thoughtfully share aspects of my own experience if I believe it could genuinely support your process. I regularly check in about how therapy is feeling for you and remain open to feedback so that we can shape the space together.

Alongside conversation, I may invite art, movement, play, writing, or other creative approaches into our sessions, depending on your comfort and interest. These are always invitations, never expectations.

I tend to work from a depth-oriented perspective and believe meaningful change often unfolds gradually through a trusting therapeutic relationship. If you are looking primarily for quick solutions, advice, or short-term symptom management, I may not be the best fit for you.

For me, therapy is a co-created space. At the heart of our work is the relationship we build together- one that allows us to explore your experiences, make sense of them, and discover ways of being that feel more authentic and supportive.

The hope is not only to understand yourself within our 50-minute sessions, but also to carry that understanding into your life beyond therapy.

THERAPEUTIC APPROACHES I DRAW FROM:

My approach is integrative, drawing from person centred and psychodynamic lens. I am trauma aware. I also integrate arts into my sessions.

Work Experience & Medium of Therapy

I have experience working with children, adolescents, and young adults across schools, NGOs, and private practice settings.

I often work with individuals navigating:

- Self-exploration and identity-related concerns
- Grief and loss
- Academic stress
- Family and relationship difficulties
- Neurodivergence and related experiences

In addition to individual therapy, I facilitate group sessions, workshops, and arts-based mental health programs.

Outside of work, I enjoy creative arts, movement, teaching, and spending time in reflective and playful spaces.

Languages I offer therapy in:

- English
- Hindi

Mode

I currently offer online therapy sessions via Google Meet.

Working Days & Session Fees

WORKING DAYS

- I work Monday to Friday.
- I offer a maximum of two therapy sessions per day, which allows me to be fully present and engaged with my clients.
- While I generally recommend weekly sessions to support continuity and depth in the therapeutic process, the frequency of sessions can be discussed based on your needs, comfort, and resources.

SESSION FEES

₹1500 for a 50-minute therapy session
I understand that therapy can be financially inaccessible for many people. If you would like to begin therapy but my fee is not affordable for you at this time, I would be happy to share referrals to other therapists who may be a better fit for your budget.
